SUMMARY

Final-year Law and Political Science student at King Saud University, expected to graduate in 2027. Throughout my studies, I deliberately pursued professional experiences across different work environments to develop practical skills beyond the classroom, particularly communication and interpersonal skills. These experiences strengthened my leadership, adaptability, problem-solving, teamwork, and sense of responsibility. As I approach graduation, I am seeking an internship where I can apply this foundation, continue learning, and begin building my professional career.
